TRADITION OF TRANSITION

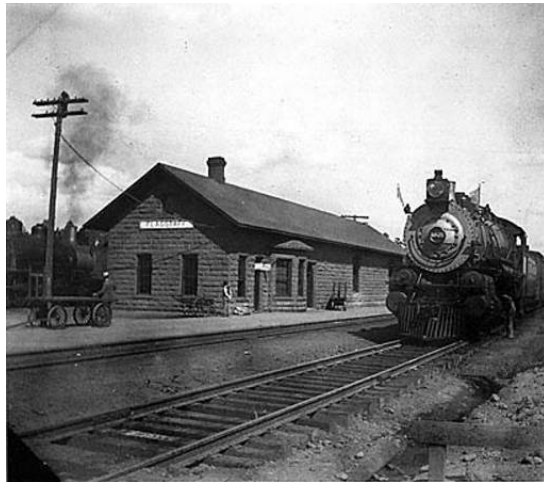

HIGHLIGHTS FOR ELECTION SERVICES DIVISION'S YEAR OF CHANGE

Over the last year, the Election Services Division has made great strides in streamlining processes – from archaic paper processing methods to removing obstacles to facilitate a variety of services it provides to voters, candidates, public officers, county partners and the general public. Through various technological applications, such as the candidate portal, the E-Qual application, new campaign finance reporting application, petition processing program, and election night reporting systems, we have made significant improvements in efficiency, accuracy, and transparency. Additionally, Arizona’s elections community embarked on the first steps to build a new state-of-the-art statewide voter registration system.

DIGITAL ARIZONA LIBRARY RAILROAD MAPS

The Digital Arizona Library (DAZL) has been hard at work for a while on the Arizona Maps Online project – especially about Arizona’s historic railway towns. The fully interactive map allows users to explore archival maps and historical photos of railroad stations throughout the Grand Canyon State. The maps date back to 1905-1918, and include stations from dozens of locations, including Phoenix, Tucson, Flagstaff, Bisbee, Globe, Nogales, and Yuma. Visitors to the website can also project the maps over modern satellite imagery to view what the stations looked like then and what the same location looks like today.

GLENDALE PUBLIC LIBRARY GRANTS

Secretary Reagan awarded the Glendale Public Library grants for three separate programs that will each impact the Glendale community in different ways. The first of the grants will be used to fund the Heroes Park Branch’s Heroes Collection ($18,600). The grant will provide funding for ‘Heroes-themed’ collection resources and materials for the new branch such as biographies, Presidents, first responders, super heroes and military leaders. The grant also includes funding for the JobNow database to help patrons find employment.
